Tax Court Rules

Rule 30. Pleadings Allowed

There shall be a petition and an answer, and, where required under these Rules, a reply. No other pleading shall be allowed, except that the Court may permit or direct some other responsive pleading. (See Rule 173 as to small tax cases.)

Rule 36. Answer

(b) Form and Content: The answer shall be drawn so that it will advise the petitioner and the Court fully of the nature of the defense. It shall contain a specific admission or denial of each material allegation in the petition; however, if the Commissioner shall be without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of an allegation, then the Commissioner shall so state, and such statement shall have the effect of a denial. If the Commissioner intends to qualify or to deny only a part of an allegation, then the Commissioner shall specify so much of it as is true and shall qualify or deny only the remainder. In addition, the answer shall contain a clear and concise statement of every ground, together with the facts in support thereof on which the Commissioner relies and has the burden of proof. Paragraphs of the answer shall be designated to correspond to those of the petition to which they relate. TCR 36(b) (emphasis added).

Rule 37. Reply

(a) Time To Reply or Move: The petitioner shall have 45 days from the date of service of the answer within which to file a reply, or 30 days from that date within which to move with respect to the answer. With respect to an amended answer or amendments to the answer the petitioner shall have like periods from the date of service of those papers within which to reply or move in response thereto, except as the Court may otherwise direct. TCR 37(a) (emphasis added).

Rule 40. Defenses and Objections Made By Pleading or Motion

Every defense, in law or fact, to a claim for relief in any pleading shall be asserted in the responsive pleading thereto if one is required, except that the following defenses may, at the option of the pleader, be made by motion: (a) Lack of jurisdiction, and (b) failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted. If a pleading sets forth a claim for relief to which the adverse party is not required to file a responsive pleading, then such party may assert at the trial any defense in law or fact to that claim for relief. If, on a motion asserting failure to state a claim on which relief can be granted, matters outside the pleading are to be presented, then the motion shall be treated as one for summary judgment and disposed of as provided in Rule 121, and the parties shall be given an opportunity to present all material made pertinent to a motion under Rule 121. TCR 40 (emphasis added).

Rule 54. Timely Filing and Joinder of Motions

Motions must be made timely, unless the Court shall permit otherwise. Motions shall be separately stated and not joined together, except that motions may be joined in the following instances: (1) Motions under Rules 51 and 52 directed to the same pleading or other paper; and (2) motions under Rule 56 for the review of a jeopardy assessment and for the review of a jeopardy levy, but only if the assessment and the levy are the subject of the same written statement required by Code section 7429(a)(1). TCR 54 (emphasis added).

Rule 121. Summary Judgment

(a) General: Either party may move, with or without supporting affidavits, for a summary adjudication in the moving party's favor upon all or any part of the legal issues in controversy. Such motion may be made at any time commencing 30 days after the pleadings are closed but within such time as not to delay the trial. TCR 121(a) (emphasis added).

Contrast the timing language of Rule 56(b).

Rule 56. Summary Judgment
(b) For Defending Party.

A party against whom a claim, counterclaim, or cross-claim is asserted or a declaratory judgment is sought may, at any time, move with or without supporting affidavits for a summary judgment in the party's favor as to all or any part thereof.
FED. R. CIV. P. 56(b) (emphasis added).

Internal Revenue Code

Section 7459. Reports and decisions

(d) EFFECT OF DECISION DISMISSING PETITION.—If a petition for a redetermination of a deficiency has been filed by the taxpayer, [then] a decision of the Tax Court dismissing the proceeding shall be considered as its decision that the deficiency is the amount determined by the Secretary. An order specifying such amount shall be entered in the records of the Tax Court unless the Tax Court cannot determine such amount from the record in the proceeding, or unless the dismissal is for lack of subject matter jurisdiction.
IRC § 7459(d) (emphasis added).

Section 6673. Sanctions and costs awarded by courts

(a) Tax court proceedings

(1) Procedures instituted primarily for delay, etc.

Whenever it appears to the Tax Court that

(A) proceedings before it have been instituted or maintained by the taxpayer primarily for delay,

(B) the taxpayer's position in such proceeding is frivolous or groundless, or

(C) the taxpayer unreasonably failed to pursue available administrative remedies, the Tax Court, in its decision, may require the taxpayer to pay to the United States a penalty not in excess of $25,000.

(2) Counsel's liability for excessive costs

Whenever it appears to the Tax Court that any attorney or other person admitted to practice before the Tax Court has multiplied the proceedings in any case unreasonably and vexatiously, the Tax Court may require

(A) that such attorney or other person pay personally the excess costs, expenses, and attorneys' fees reasonably incurred because of such conduct, or

(B) if such attorney is appearing on behalf of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, that the United States pay such excess costs, expenses, and attorneys' fees in the same manner as such an award by a district court.

(b) Proceedings in other courts

(1) Claims under section 7433

Whenever it appears to the court that the taxpayer's position in the proceedings before the court instituted or maintained by such taxpayer under section 7433 is frivolous or groundless, the court may require the taxpayer to pay to the United States a penalty not in excess of $10,000.

(2) Collection of sanctions and costs

In any civil proceeding before any court (other than the Tax Court) which is brought by or against the United States in connection with the determination, collection, or refund of any tax, interest, or penalty under this title, any monetary sanctions, penalties, or costs awarded by the court to the United States may be assessed by the Secretary and, upon notice and demand, may be collected in the same manner as a tax.

(3) Sanctions and costs awarded by a court of appeals

In connection with any appeal from a proceeding in the Tax Court or a civil proceeding described in paragraph (2), an order of a United States Court of Appeals or the Supreme Court awarding monetary sanctions, penalties or court costs to the United States may be registered in a district court upon filing a certified copy of such order and shall be enforceable as other district court judgments. Any such sanctions, penalties, or costs may be assessed by the Secretary and, upon notice and demand, may be collected in the same manner as a tax.

Statement of the Case

Trial Court Jurisdiction

26 U.S.C.A. § 7442 (68A Stat. 879 (1954)).

Procedurally, someone has to go first

The music is on; the decorations, all up; the food, out; the guests, around the tables. But, until the first couple actually starts, no one wants to take to the dance floor.

Telephones, automobiles, airplanes, computers, stores that sell nothing but fancy coffee. Someone had to go first.

Cognitive dissonance serves a vital procedural, adversarial function

All mechanical and electrical "control systems" work, because the design includes a "negative feedback loop." In society, the "negative feedback loop" is provided, in part, by cognitive dissonance. Those who go first do teach the new perspective, but not without fierce and relentless challenge. Change occurs best at a rate absorbable by the marketplace, even when it feels like trying to run through an Olympic-size swimming pool full of molasses.

Permission to (re)think—a procedural condition precedent

Here, the ones who go first don't need anyone else's permission to think. They are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights (and Duties), one of which is the right (and duty) to think. But, those intent on committing crimes under color as a result of their cognitive dissonance do need permission to (re)think.

Pharaoh never really had permission to (re)think. Thirteen times he had highly reliable information, and 13 times he acted from the lie that had become habit.

But, his advisors didn't need all 13. In fact, after the first four, i.e., rod-to-serpent (mimicked), water-to-blood (mimicked), swarms of frogs (mimicked, but Pharaoh saw a difference) and dust-to-lice (not mimicked), they had seen enough. So, feel free to grant permission to (re)think at the earliest humanly conceivably possible opportunity. Boxing matches wouldn't attract anything like the crowds they do if they weren't scheduled to go 15 rounds. Who wants to pay all that money to see a first-round TKO?

They understand the gold clause issues ...

The 9th Circuit have "gone first" [1] in the revived gold clause issues, and they zeroed right in on it.

So, how do they (A) understand the gold clause issues so well, where gold is turned on and off like a light switch, legislatively, i.e., completely independently from that language that would otherwise prohibit the mere thought, much less actual existence, of an "off switch" for Money, while simultaneously (B) understand the "tax" system not at all? This particular dichotomy is mind-boggling. Where specific language serves as no "source of authority" whatsoever for the "choice of law" issue, how can that very same language serve as a "source of authority" for any other issue? Cognitive dissonance serves a vital function, but it is not a defense or excuse for crimes committed under color. Ignorance of the law is another one that just won't work for jurists. Insanity, on the other hand, is a perfectly good, recognized defense. But, to go there, should the criminally insane remain on the bench?

... just not evidence via Verified Petitions

The complicated theories they "get." It's the simple, ancient ones that evade their consciousness.

The 9th Circuit were "unpersuaded" by the law to which they swore an oath. That's almost humorous when contrasted with the Fifth Circuit's scorched-earth policy frontal assault against that same law and oath!

But, how difficult can this possibly be? O'Connor submitted a verified petition, traditionally the proper way to initiate any maritime proceeding. This compelled Respondent either (A) to satisfy its alleged capacity as beneficiary by proving up, under penalty of perjury, the ancient threshold burden of proof carried by all who assert a claim as beneficiary, in particular the agreement O'Connor signed by which she voluntarily assumed a fiduciary capacity with respect to this claimant, or (B) to shut up and go away. The only evidence in this case is in O'Connor's verified petition. According to that evidence, there is no fiduciary obligation. According to that evidence, there is no amount due. According to that evidence, everything about the "administrative determination" was rendered incompetent, null, void and worthless (not to mention a flagrant violation of mail fraud), and this by at least two means: direct assertion of owing zero, and, even more to the point, direct assertion of having no burden of proof to carry.

[1] Citing the 8th Circuit's insightful study.

Either O'Connor has a fiduciary obligation or she doesn't. According to the never-rebutted evidence of Record, she doesn't.

However, the Tax Court, acting on the lie that has become habit, in violation of their oath to uphold the "law" of "this state," and in extreme violation of judicial ethics, found facts that are nowhere in evidence in this Record, committed retaliation, extortion and mail fraud, all under color, ordering her to make a fiduciary's distribution without ever compelling the alleged beneficiary to prove that it even is a beneficiary, of anything, much less of something over which O'Connor is a/the fiduciary.

And, the 9th Circuit, acting on the lie that has become habit, has willfully joined in the ongoing conspiracy under color against O'Connor, extorting more money from her for her demanding that a case first be proved up against her, and for her being the only one in this matter, so far, who has argued the law applicable to this case.

Order what?! The Tax Court to follow their own Rules? to afford Due Process? You're joking, right?

Actually, no, and there comes a point in time when one fatigues from the need to assert such arguments!

No Answer, thus no Counterclaim.

To demonstrate just how cock and bull sure they were that they could run over the law, because it's being argued, in their view, by a moron pro se from hickville Montana, the Tax Court abandoned even their own Rules.

COMMISSIONER filed no Answer. The glaring absence of any "Standing Pre-trial Order" confirms the lack of joinder of issue. Without an Answer, there is not even the remotest basis to conjure a "Counterclaim," even via misnomer. Where there is no affirmative claim for relief by the alleged beneficiary, thus nothing even remotely purporting to satisfy the threshold burden of proof, it's excruciatingly clear that O'Connor was never even alleged, much less proved, to be a fiduciary. And, without evidence proving that capacity and relationship, O'Connor never had a duty to disprove any "administrative determination" in the first place! No fiduciary's burden of proof ever arose, because no beneficiary ever carried its threshold burden of proof.

No affirmative claim for relief filed, but summary judgment for such is filed/granted, anyway.

Despite TCR 54, COMMISSIONER filed improperly joined motionS of TCR 40(b) (dismiss—failure to state a claim) and 121 (summary judgment). Summary judgment was not for a defense; rather, for affirmative relief. Thus, there is (A) no pleading on which to base such motion, (B) no evidence in support of such motion, (C) certainly no evidence of any fiduciary obligation on O'Connor's part, thus, generally, (D) about as Due-Process-defying a handling of the matter as can be found.

Further, TCR 121 is specifically limited by a threshold time marker: "Such motion may be made at any time commencing 30 days after the pleadings are closed[.]" TCR 121(a) (emphasis added). Where there is no Answer, the pleadings are not closed. Where there is no Counterclaim, the pleadings are not closed. And, for COMMISSIONER to seek summary judgment requesting affirmative relief based on no pleading, at all, is patently absurd on its face! So, there is no responsive pleading, but there is a motion to dismiss (the petition), improperly joined with a summary judgment motion, seeking affirmative relief on a claim never pled or proved!

Sec. 7459(d) is not some kind of mystical elixir.

Nothing about § 7459(d) supplies pleadings or evidence. All § 7459(d) suggests is that IF the Record contains pleadings, and IF the Record contains evidence favorable to such judgment, such may be used to support a judgment. Nothing about § 7459(d) allows ignoring the evidence that is of Record. Thus, nothing about § 7459(d) authorizes ignoring O'Connor's verified petition. And, to repeat, nothing about § 7459(d) supplies evidence, affirmative or rebuttal.

Also key to § 7459(d) is its clear condition precedent: "taxpayer." Since this critical term was never supported by evidence of Record, § 7459(d) never even applied!

When does the criminal Record-tampering stop?!

This Court bent over backwards with diplomacy in Ballard. Here, the Tax Court struck O'Connor's Motion to Strike via "secret order," i.e., without any Notice or justification of any type, kind or nature. The Tax Court simply strike whatever, willy nilly, apparently because not one of them has gone to jail for it, yet. And, where the appellate courts refuse to correct it, maybe they should join the Tax Court in the federal recreational unit.

"Ve Vill Naught Argue Zee Law Een Dis Kort!! You're liable! No, they don't have to prove it, or even plead it, and no, you don't even get discovery!"

The Tax Court not only struck her motion to strike, not only denied her motion for judgment on the pleadings, not only denied her motion for default judgment, not only ordered, sua sponte, discovery without any "joinder of issue" anywhere in sight, see TCR 70(a)(2), not only set an in-person hearing, in DC, for a Montana case, on a pleadings issue motion, but also granted, and the 9th

Circuit affirmed, without one shred of evidence, summary judgment based not only on a motion filed too early, per the Tax Court's very own Rules, but also on a claim for affirmative relief never even pled. Of course, pleadings may be conformed to the evidence; however, where there are no pleadings to conform, and where there is no evidence, from no trial, there are still no pleadings!

The law is "unpersuasive" to the 9th Circuit ...

As manifestly simple as O'Connor's position is, substantively and procedurally, and as manifestly criminal the Tax Court's conduct, the 9th Circuit find all this "unpersuasive." To be "unpersuaded" is to assert a rather "laid back" response to it all. The 9th Circuit must hear a lot of "first impression" ideas. "Laid back" is good. One can work with "unpersuaded." This beats the daylights out of the Fifth Circuit's knee-jerk activated, nuclear-powered flamethrower!

But, then they added "sanctions." Retaliatory extortion is bad. By sanctioning those who dare to argue the law, they promote the criminality. Why do we even bother with 90-day letters? Why not just go straight to administratively drafted, ex parte, non-appealable summary judgment "orders?!" What would be different? The alleged beneficiary's threshold burden of proof would be just as unproved; the lack of evidence, just as egregious; Due Process, just as butchered.

Just because "no one" since Pollock has argued the law on which this scam is based hardly means that trust law has changed. And, it's not O'Connor's problem that all these attorneys and "judges" have based their entire "tax" careers on a scam and a lie. Yes, it's a wicked paradigm shift, but retaliation and extortion under color will not become public policy in "this state."

The law that allows prevention is the exact same law that provides the cure. Prevention, however, is much more cost effective, for all involved.

... but the law has "persuaded" the Tax Court.

Toward that end, the Tax Court are already making changes. Congratulations, again, to Judge FOLEY, who "went first," and, by silence, denied the improperly joined motionS in the Wallis case (recently appealed to the Fifth Circuit), thereby reconfirming (1) that the law of "this state" is neither frivolous nor groundless, (2) that those who competently argue the law of "this state" are not subject to "sanctions" for doing so, and maybe even (3) TCR 54 does apply equally. While discovery was completely denied, and the Record criminally tampered with, we have to start somewhere. Even the maniacal, Due-Process-butchering, criminal-Record-tampering VASQUEZ, who ordered Florance to respond to the SECRETARY's declaration of war against him, and who (with WOLFE, apparently no longer with the Tax Court) criminally tampered with those Records, by "unfiling" some 54 documents, including 10 "secret orders," thus, who belongs in jail, may be renouncing. It's been several months since the Fifth Circuit granted DOJ's motion to remand VASQUEZ's "judgment," on the grounds of alleged clerical error. How long does it take to change one figure in a one-page "judgment?"

Argument

Remedies Requested

Vacate.

There being no lawful trial "judgment" to Affirm, the "judgment" on appeal is properly vacated. Respondent never proved its standing and has disclaimed (by vituperating O'Connor). The TCRs apply only to Respondent's benefit; the "judgment" defies the only evidence of Record; and the judicial lawlessness has triggered Liljeberg, rendering GERBER without authority to participate, at all; his "judgment" is facially void.

Enter "[illegible]ke nothing" judgment.

Respon[illegible]ent never pled, and what Respondent did file, namely improperly joined, untimely and incompetent motionS, are properly struck. Thus, either default judgment, or judgment on the pleadings, that COMMISSIONER take nothing, should be entered.

IRC § 6673 Penalties.

The courts owe O'Connor § 6673 penalties.

Discussion

Due Process—No Evidence, No Pleadings

1. Does IRC § 7459(d) allow "no-evidence-required" judgments?

No judgment stands without evidence.

Cf. FED. R. APP. P. 10(b)(2). See, generally, IRC § 7458; Miller, 654 F.2d at 521; and Boddie. Unless we're up to throwing Due Process out, altogether, no statute may ever allow a judgment to stand without evidence.

IRC § 7459(d) has two sentences, not just one.

Per common sense and ancient reasoning, or where that fails, per the second sentence of § 7459(d), the Record must contain evidence supporting the final judgment. The first sentence does not negate the second, or Due Process, or trust law, or the Rules of Civil Procedure.

Where's the evidence supporting the "judgment?"

The only evidence of Record is found in O'Connor's verified petition. O'Connor (unrebutted evidence is accepted as true). Nothing about the verified petition supports the Tax Court's "judgment."

Burden of proof—It rests first on the beneficiary.

The appellate court would have us believe that O'Connor didn't object to the determination. Not only (A) is this flat out ethically sanctionable, for O'Connor most certainly did object to the determination, by asserting at least (1) an amount due of zero (certainly more than adequate for notice pleading) and, even more to the point, (2) no fiduciary obligation at all, by declaration under perjury, but also (B) this warped perspective still presumes facts not in evidence. Unless and until the alleged beneficiary satisfies its threshold burden of proof, O'Connor has no burden to disprove squat.

See Pollock I, 157 U.S. at 553-54; TCRs 34(b)(4), 36; White Mountain Apache, 249 F.3d at 1370-71 (Tribe claimed breach of fiduciary duty; "United States" moved, per 12(b)(6), to dismiss; granted by trial court; reversed on appeal); FDIC v. Barton, 104 F.3d at 701-02; Conkling; C&B Sales; BOGERT § 50 at 102, § 871 at 156 and nn.2, 3 (where beneficiary fails to prove damages, there is no recovery). See also Vu (earthquake case, quasi-fiduciary obligation estops limitations defense); Stanford Univ. Hosp., 174 F.3d at 1084, applying Bartoni-Corsi Produce, Inc, 130 F.3d at 862 (O'Melvany liability rule applies only to fiduciaries). See also IRC § 6020(b) (the numerics submitted are not even subscribed); Crawford (where there is no evidence even offered, O'Connor is deprived her right to cross-examine); O'Connor (unrebutted evidence is accepted as true); Assoc'd Gen. Contractors, 508 U.S. at 668-69 (unrebutted allegations accepted as true); BOGERT § 50, at 108, § 170, at 205, 207 (Proof of Acceptance or Disclaimer), § 172, at 227-28 (nunc pro tunc consequences of vilifying O'Connor for her demanding evidence, Due Process, Equal Protection, etc.).

Where are the pleadings?

And, for a court to award affirmative relief, at all, not only must there be evidence, but also there must first be pleadings asserting such claim. See FED. R. CIV. P. 13 (compels counterclaims), 15 (trial of issue works de facto nunc pro tunc amendment of pleadings); Boy Scouts of Am. (tragic case; Jones Act discussion made possible by amendment of pleadings which added the affirmative claim(s)); BOGERT §§ 170-72 (disclaimer and its effect); TCRs 30 (prohibits counterclaims), 36 (requires counterclaim via misnomer), 37 (Reply allowed/required for required misnomer counterclaim via Answer); Dishman (claims and defenses are very different); and Janis, 428 U.S. at 438 n.5. (in federal court, counterclaims used to be standard operating procedure). And, this judgment finds neither pleadings nor evidence in support!

Conclusion—No evidence supports the "judgment."

Nothing about § 7459(d) allows a "no-evidence-required" judgment. Thus, nothing about § 7459(d) allows a "no-pleading-required" judgment, either.

But, based on (1) no affirmative claim for relief, (2) no evidence and (3) motionS that are frivolous, improperly joined and untimely, GERBER entered judgment for Respondent, and the 9th Circuit refused to correct this.

STATUTORY CHALLENGE

2. If so, does IRC § 7459(d) violate Due Process?

Due Process compels evidence.

It's legally impossible for any judgment to stand without evidence. Any statute that purports to suggest otherwise violates Due Process and is void on its face.

The problem is not ~~with~~ § 7459(d).

The problem is that the Tax Court and the 9th Circuit sanctionably pervert and corrupt it. The Tax Court read what they want and then just stop reading. They do this with TCR 34(b)(4) and (5), and they do this with § 7459(d). There is more to TCR 34(b)(4) and (5) than they understand, and § 7459(d) has two sentences, not just one. The 9th Circuit suffer from the same blindness.

On the one hand, to ruin a perfectly legitimate statute, find some abusive way to implement it. Accord Yick Wo (race-neutral statute enforced by unequal policy (against Chinese) violates Equal Protection). But, on the other, a questionable statute may be construed consistently with the policy of "this state." Thus, if the Tax Court and 9th Circuit read § 7459(d) properly, then it's void on its face. If O'Connor reads it properly, then the statute is fine, and the Tax Court and 9th Circuit should be censured and sanctioned, if not also jailed.

Due Process—Tax Court Rules

3. Is Respondent's TCR 121 motion timely?

The rules they wrote!

TCR 121 specifically prohibits even the filing of summary judgment motions until "30 days after the pleadings are closed[.]" TCR 121 (emphasis added). Pleadings are not closed until there's at least an Answer, and maybe not until there's a Reply. See TCRs 30, 36, 37.

Respondent never pled.

Since Respondent never Answered, not only were the pleadings not closed at the time Respondent filed its improperly joined motionS, but also there most certainly was no expiration of 30 days after such closure!

Equal Protection—Tax Court Rules

4. Do TCRs 54 and 121 restrict petitioners only?

Equal Protection Violations.

As simply a list of examples, the following areas have Equal Protection standards:

(1) racial bias, e.g., Johnson (racial bias in prison segregation policy);

Grutter (law school admissions policy, "reverse discrimination");

Hopwood (law school admissions policy, "reverse discrimination");

Miller v. Johnson (race-based gerrymandering of congressional districts);

Adarand Constructors, Inc. (race-bias in government contracting);

Powers (citing Batson) (racial bias in preemptory strikes in jury selection);

Bakke (medical school admissions policy, "reverse discrimination");

(13) irrational governmental action, e.g., Village of Willowbrook v. Olech ("class of one" fully recognized where intentional, irrational, reproducible governmental action is involved).

Irrational, intentional governmental action.

The irrational, intentional governmental action theory applies, and O'Connor is a "class of one." If she's not a "class of one," it's because she's a member of the class of pro se Tax Court petitioners who demand that the alleged beneficiary (A) satisfy its threshold burden of proof, or (B) shut up and go away. To date, neither has occurred. Whether O'Connor was singled out or is a member of a larger class, which class is criminally abused under color, in violation of the law of "this state," Due Process and Equal Protection, to list the highlights, O'Connor's "injury in fact" is the same. Per both the Tax Court and 9th Circuit, TCR 54 restricted Respondent's improperly joined motionS not at all!

Where Tello (5th), Florance (5th), Stearman (5th), Wallis (5th) and O'Connor (9th), have compelled the Tax Court to follow the law, the Tax Court's initial response, 100% of the time, was pure, unmitigated, retaliatory lawlessness. So far, FOLEY, alone, in the Wallis case, has opted to go back to the law library. FOLEY, alone, has renounced, but there may still be hope for VASQUEZ.

The rest of the Tax Court and the appellate courts perpetuate their lawless, vicious, extortionate attack, under color, against the law and those who argue it.

Conclusion—Two-way street or no street.

TCRs 54 and 121 restrict equally or not at all. Respondent filed improperly joined motionS, but TCR 54 doesn't limit Respondent; only O'Connor. The TCR 40 motion is sanctionably incompetent on its face, and the 121 motion, in addition to being facially incompetent, was just as facially too early. But TCR 121 doesn't limit Respondent; only O'Connor.

Thus, GERBER not only did not strike ("unfile") those motionS (because petitioners alone are subject to having documents struck, not Respondent), but also did set the motionS (on the pleadings) for in-person hearing, in Washington, D.C., while simultaneously ordering O'Connor to produce discovery (facts "with specificity"), under the disguise of ordering correction to a verified petition that needed no correcting. [2] This wholly biased, intentional, irrational action by GERBER violates TCRs 40, 54 and 121, as well as Due Process, Equal Protection and a host of criminal statutes, state and federal. And, this is what happens when the law is not applied equally, i.e., when the "judges" become parties to the case.

Epilog—Part 1.

Since TCR 54 doesn't restrict Respondent, it doesn't restrict O'Connor, and the motions that GERBER and PANUTHOS struck are properly restored to the Record.

Epilog—Part 2.

If TCR 54 does restrict Respondent, then Respondent's non-first motionS are properly struck. Further, since there is no responsive pleading, O'Connor's motion for default judgment should be granted.

Epilog—Part 3.

Since Respondent rebutted no evidence, O'Connor's motion for judgment on the pleadings should be granted.

[2] What GERBER really set for a hearing was his own TCR 52 motion, which is actually a discovery order, which, like the TCR 121 motion, is too early, and for virtually the same reason. See Point 18.

Epilog—Part 4.

Regarding "too early," GERBER is also "too early!" To look again at the rules they wrote, discovery can't start until 30 days after "joinder of issue."

> (2) Time for Discovery: Discovery shall not be commenced, without leave of Court, before the expiration of 30 days after joinder of issue (see Rule 38).

TCR 70(a)(2) (emphasis added).

"Joinder of issue" doesn't happen without an Answer, Since Respondent never Answered, GERBER's discovery "order" facially and defiantly violates TCR 70(a)(2), as well as Due Process and Equal Protection.

Due Process—Ethics, Sanctions

5. Should GERBER have self-recused? If so, is Liljeberg satisfied?

GERBER should have self-recused.

No one is lawfully compelled to trial in a kangaroo court. 28 U.S.C.A. § 455(a). GERBER proclaimed his bias and his proclivity toward lawlessness in these ways:

- He struck, without "order" or any other form of Notice, O'Connor's motion to strike.
- He failed to strike, instantly and sua sponte, Respondent's improperly joined motionS, filed in repugnant defiance of TCR 54. But, O'Connor's joined motionS, were struck, by both GERBER and PANUTHOS.
- He failed to deny, instantly, Respondent's untimely (too early) TCR 40/121 motion, filed in repugnant defiance of TCR 121, which prohibits even the filing of such motion until 30 days after the pleadings close, which doesn't happen without an Answer, and Respondent never Answered.
- He issued his own TCR 52 motion/"order" against O'Connor's perfectly acceptable verified petition, in repugnant defiance of TCR 34(b)(4) and (5).

- The TCR 52 motion/"order" he issued is, in reality, a discovery order, requiring presentation of facts "with specificity," in defiance of the policy of "notice pleading," which O'Connor had more than satisfied.
- The TCR 52 motion/"order" he issued also repugnantly defies TCR 70(a)(2), in that discovery doesn't even start until 30 days after "joinder of issue." "Joinder" most certainly doesn't happen without an Answer, which Respondent never filed.
- For a Montana case, he set, in repugnant defiance of TCRs 34(b)(4), (5), 36, 37, 40, 52, 54, 70(a)(2) and 121, his TCR 52 motion/"order," which regards a pleadings issue, for an in-person hearing, in Washington, D.C.
- He denied O'Connor's motions for default judgment and for judgment on the pleadings, even though Respondent's frivolous motions are properly struck sua sponte, and Respondent never rebutted O'Connnor's verified petition.
- He has so defied his oath of office, the ancient law of this state, "his own" rules, Due Process and Equal Protection as to multiply vexatiously and with scienter this litigation.

Liljeberg is satisfied.

A reasonably objective person can conclude that any "judge" who violates "his own" rules, Due Process and Equal Protection, and then sanctions litigants who assert the very same law to which that "judge" swore an oath, is sufficiently partial to be disqualified from that case. Where recusal should have happened, but didn't, the decision to vacate analyzes these three factors:

- "the risk of injustice to the parties in the particular case[;]"
- "the risk that the denial of relief will produce injustice in other cases[;] and"

- "the risk of undermining the public's confidence in the judicial process."

Liljeberg, 486 U.S. at 864.

RISK OF INJUSTICE TO O'CONNOR.

The risk of injustice is high to any party where the "judge" bends over backwards to defy all law in sight in order to rule against that party. To sanction a party for arguing the law is to defy, sanctionably, judicial ethics considerations, and to introduce still another body of law. Where any "judge" characterizes the law, itself, as "frivolous and groundless," risk of injustice screams from the page.

RISK OF INJUSTICE IN OTHER CASES.

Injustice in other cases via this exact same approach has already occurred. Further, where a "judge" sanctions a party for arguing the law, it's impossible for that not to affect other cases, as is already proved.

RISK OF UNDERMINING PUBLIC CONFIDENCE IN JUDICIAL PROCESS.

O'Connor expects that few things are more horrific to the American people than "judges" who are so biased and malicious that they overtly violate their court's very own rules, slander the law, generally, by sanctioning those who argue the law, and defy Due Process and Equal protection openly ("Stop us if you think you can!"). There may even be a group of U.S. citizens who would find such "judges" horrific. How this might apply to the Tax Court, in which a "no confidence" perception prevails mightily is a good question. But, Liljeberg does not "grandfather in" habitual abuses as exceptions or defenses.

Conclusion.

GERBER should have self-recused, and didn't. The Liljeberg standard is more than satisfied. The "final judgment" is properly vacated.

6. How do the Tax Court and the 9th Circuit avoid paying O'Connor penalties per § 6673?

Pro Se's, the excluded class of litigants.

What's good for the goose is good for the gander.

WHO—ALL BAD ACTORS.

Train car loads of "penalties" exist to "correct" the "wayward" "taxpayer." Virtually nothing exists to correct systemic abuse by the Secretary, see IRC § 7430, and even less exists to correct systemic abuse by the trial and appellate courts. The "remedies" that do exist are connected with "attorneys fees," see, e.g., § 6673(a)(2)(B), leaving the entire class of pro se litigants without an effective remedy, and that in a dispute-resolution system designed entirely around the pro se litigant. On its own, the Equal Protection problem manifestly declares itself.

It is impossible to conceive that congressional policy would be (A) to create a biased forum, in whole, much less in part by deliberately singling out an entire class of litigants, the pro se's, for special, Due-Process-defying. treatment, much less (B) to deny sanctions, especially in the face of irrational, intentional, reproducible, unequal governmental action and conduct. Therefore, it follows that the congressional policy is to penalize the conduct proscribed, including that conduct where a "jurist" is the principal. Cf. § 6673(a)(2) ("any attorney or other person admitted to practice law before the Tax Court").

WHAT—ALL VEXATIOUS MULTIPLICATION OF PROCEEDINGS.

The conduct at issue is vexatious multiplication of the proceedings. Cf. 28 U.S.C. § 1927. Lawless (defiance of the law under color can be viewed no other way) judicial activity vexatiously multiples the proceedings, thereby bringing such activity within § 6673. We're way beyond "debatable" on these issues. The judicial "officers" are not simply errant, or simply abusing reasoned discretion. Despite all of O'Connor's good faith, due diligence and full disclosure, they are flat out victimizing O'Connor, in defiance of every applicable procedural and substantive law in sight. This tends to reinforce O'Connor's reading of § 6673, namely that it limits only a "taxpayer's" upper limit to $25,000, not the Secretary's, not DOJ's, and not any "jurist's," regarding which upper limit § 6673 is silent. For them, the penalty is competently limited by "punishment that fits the conduct."

Equalize the playing field.

If O'Connor is subject to a financial hammer for being "frivolous and groundless," then how do the criminally extortionate "jurists" avoid that same hammer? Where economic/financial measures are found suitable to bring the (falsely) accused into awareness of the law, are such measures not just as suitable to bring the lawless court into awareness? Where the ABA-approved curriculums, and licensing exam programs, and the CLE programs and the trial and appellate courts, compel the pro se to supplement this Court's continuing legal education program, those CLE hours are not "free of charge," for they are not sponsored by any bar association.

GERBER, and the 9th Circuit panel, have all vexatiously and unreasonably multiplied these proceedings. In addition to a "tax" bill of $0, O'Connor is entitled to § 6673 penalties from GERBER, and from the 9th Circuit, in the amount of the total amount "ordered" due, plus interest, plus a minimum of $25,000 per level of litigation (this is the third level) whether individually, or jointly and severally with each "bad actor," including UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

Hoisted by their own petard!

Once again, let's hear their very own words, their standard of review. "Sanctions are appropriate when the result of an appeal is obvious and the arguments of error are wholly without merit." Grimes, 806 F.2d at 1453. The result of both trial and appeal is obvious, and their "arguments of error are wholly without merit."

Conclusion.

Both the present legislative policies and their horrifically biased application violate Equal Protection. There are no penalty provisions protecting pro se's who are victimized by "frivolous and groundless" "jurists." However, § 6673 does apply for "tax" cases. Lawlessness stops when that's more expensive than following the law.

Conclusion

The criminal lawlessness under color has to end.

COMMISSIONER is used to huffing and puffing and blowing down houses built on sand, but, just like the big bad wolf, COMMISSIONER has no ability to blow down houses built on granite. No number of crimes (under color) or conspirators changes the ancient law of trusts.

No evidence; no pleadings?—No "judgment!"

The only pleading and the only evidence of Record is O'Connor's verified petition. COMMISSIONER never proved itself a beneficiary, or an agent of such, or that O'Connor was a fiduciary, or that there was any remote relationship between COMMISSIONER and O'Connor. Nothing about § 7459(d) supplies either pleadings or evidence. The COMMISSIONER, its counsel, the Tax Court, DOJ and the 9th Circuit simply flat out committed extortion.

Threshold burden of proof not satisfied.

Where COMMISSIONER never even alleged, much less satisfied, its threshold burden of proof, it's the height of extortionate absurdity to burden O'Connor with disproving a claim that never existed of Record. It's all the more egregious given O'Connor's sworn denial of any such obligation was never rebutted, not even by allegation, much less by sworn statement.

Improperly joined motionS should be struck.

COMMISSIONER's incompetent, sanctionable and improperly joined motionS are properly struck sua sponte, for violation of TCR 54.

Untimely motion should never have been filed.

COMMISSIONER's improperly joined TCR 121 motion should never have been allowed filed. The pleadings were never closed, thus, the 30-day wait period never started.

Due Process and Equal Protection will prevail.

Judgment on the pleadings is proper. Default judgment is proper. Retaliatory, lawless extortion against those who demand that the law be followed is not.

Void "judgment;" no evidence, no pleadings—Direct Conflict with Federal Standards.

The 9th Circuit have upheld the Tax Court's no-pleading-required, no-evidence-required, TCRs-don't-matter, Due-Process-doesn't-matter, Equal-Protection-doesn't-matter "judgment." The Tax Court's manifest deviation from the law, inexorably intertwined with the flagrant violation of oath to uphold the law of this state, is only amplified by its ad-hominem-laced attitude, perspective and demeanor against pro se's, especially those who demand evidence and application of the law. The trial and appellate "jurists' " ethically sanctionable departure into law-defying rulings, supported by extortionate "sanctions" awards, conflicts with (1) the truth, (2) the ancient Common Law and additional foundational law of this state, (3) longstanding federal statutory provisions, (4) relevant decisions of this Court, and (5) relevant decisions of other courts of appeals.

Thus, the 9th Circuit have (A) engaged in ethically sanctionable conduct, (B) entered an opinion that conflicts with the very foundation of this state, generally, and the "tax" system, in particular, (C) entered an opinion that overtly and egregiously conflicts with relevant decisions of this Court, as well as with relevant decisions of other courts of appeals, and even their own, and (D) so far departed from the accepted and usual course of judicial proceedings, and has sanctioned (i.e., encouraged) the same departure by the Tax Court, as to call for the exercise of this Court's supervisory power.

Statutorily-justified no-evidence-required "judgments"—Important Question of Federal Law.

Whether IRC § 7459(d) allows a no-evidence-required "judgment," or a "judgment" that manifestly goes against the only evidence, thus openly violates Due Process, is an important question of federal law that has not been, but should be, decided by this Court.

Overtly biased application of TCRs 54, 121—Important Questions of Federal Law.

Whether TCRs 54 and 121 restrict petitioners only are important questions of federal law that have not been, but should be, decided by this Court.

Refusal to self-recuse—Direct Conflict With Federal Standards.

By supporting, and refusing to correct, the plethora of errant judicial activity and rulings by both GERBER and PANUTHOS, thus by not applying § 455(a) to GERBER and to PANUTHOS, thus by not applying Liljeberg, thereby overtly approving the GERBER/PANUTHOS kangaroo court, the 9th Circuit have (1) entered an opinion that conflicts with relevant decisions of this Court and with relevant decisions of other courts of appeals, and even their own, and (2) so far departed from the accepted and usual course of judicial proceedings, and have sanctioned (manifestly encouraged) the same departure by the Tax Court, as to call for the exercise of this Court's supervisory power.

Trial or appellate jurist liable to party per § 6673—Important Question of Federal Law.

And, whether federal trial and appellate "jurists" are liable under IRC § 6673 to litigants for judicially-spawned vexatious multiplication of "tax" proceedings is an important question of federal law that has not been, but should be, decided by this Court.

Remedies Requested

O'Connor requests

1. That this Court grant the petition, issue the writ of certiorari and take jurisdiction of this matter.
2. That the "judgment" on appeal be vacated; ultimately, that the trial court "judgment" be vacated; that Respondent's motionS be struck, and that default judgment or judgment on the pleadings be entered for O'Connor, that Respondent take nothing.
3. A declaration that TCRs 54 and 121 restrict both sides equally or apply not at all.
4. A declaration that IRC § 7459(d) does not allow any no-evidence-required "judgments," or any "judgments" that defy the only evidence of Record.
5. A ruling that GERBER and PANUTHOS should have self-recused, and that per Liljeberg the "judgment" is vacated, or, better, reversed.
6. IRC § 6673 penalties in her favor, from the courts.
7. The opportunity to brief any additional issues the Court identifies for such.
8. The non-argument calendar. Oral argument is not expected to aid the resolution of these issues.
9. That costs be taxed to the Tax Court and 9th Circuit. And,
10. Any and all other relief at law, in equity or sui generis to which she may show herself justly entitled.

Respectfully submitted,

Appeal from a Decision of the United States Tax Court

Submitted January 9, 2006

Before: HUG, O'SCANNLAIN, and SILVERMAN, Circuit Judges.

Cathy J. O'Connor appeals pro se from the Tax Court's decision dismissing for failure to state a claim her petition challenging the Commissioner of Internal Revenue's ("Commissioner") notice of deficiency for tax year 2002. We have jurisdiction pursuant to 26 U.S.C. § 7482. We

The Tax Court properly dismissed O'Connor's petition for failure to state a claim because she did not set forth a clear and concise assignment of error or any facts demonstrating error in the Commissioner's determinations. See Tax Ct. R. 34(b)(4); Grimes, 806 F.2d at 1453-54. Moreover, the Tax Court ordered O'Connor to file an amended petition clearly setting forth the errors alleged, and she failed to do so.

O'Connor's remaining contentions are unpersuasive.

We grant the Commissioner's motion for sanctions in the amount of $3,000. See Grimes, 806 F.2d at 1454 ("Sanctions are appropriate when the result of an appeal is obvious and the arguments of error are wholly without merit.").

ORDER OF DISMISSAL AND DECISION

On June 8, 2004, respondent issued a notice of deficiency to petitioner determining a deficiency in and additions to her Federal income tax for 2002. (Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code, as amended, and Rule references are to the Tax Court Rules of Practice and Procedure.) Respondent determined that petitioner failed to report dividends and gains from stock sales and a real estate sale.

Petitioner filed with the Court a timely petition for redetermination contesting the above-referenced notice of deficiency. The petition includes allegations that: (1) The Secretary is not authorized to render accounting or legal advice in the State of Montana; [1] (2) petitioner has no "fiduciary obligation" to the Secretary or the IRS; and (3)

[1] [N.B. Not "State of Montana;" rather "this state." Is it a Due Process (vagueness) problem, systemically, where even the jurists have no idea "where" they are? CJO]

petitioner has no legal obligation to report her tax liability to the IRS. At the time the petition was filed, petitioner resided in Bozeman, Montana. [2]

Respondent filed a Motion to Dismiss For Failure to State a Claim Upon Which Relief Can be Granted. By Order dated September 15, 2004, petitioner was directed to file a proper amended petition setting forth with specificity each error allegedly made by respondent in the determination of the deficiency and separate statements of every fact upon which the assignments of error are based.

Petitioner failed to file a proper amended petition. However, petitioner filed a Report, a Response, and a Motion for Default Judgment (which was denied), and lodged an Objection. Petitioner's various submissions contain nothing but frivolous and groundless arguments.

This matter was called for hearing at the Court's motions session held in Washington, D.C., on October 20, 2004. Counsel for respondent appeared at the hearing and presented argument in support of respondent's motion to dismiss. [3] No appearance was entered by or on behalf of petitioner at the hearing.

Rule 34(b)(4) requires that a petition filed in this Court contain clear and concise assignments of each and every error that the taxpayer alleges to have been committed by the Commissioner in the determination of the deficiencies and the additions to tax and/or penalties

[2] [N.B. O'Connor asserted non-territorial inhabitance and domicile throughout. CJO]

[3] [n.1 in the original.] During the hearing, counsel for respondent conceded that the amount of the addition to tax under sec. 6651(a)(1) listed on the cover page of the notice of deficiency was overstated inasmuch as it also included an amount for an addition to tax under sec. 6651(a)(2). Respondent conceded that petitioner is not liable for the latter addition to tax far 2002. The correct amount of the addition to tax under sec. 6651(a)(1) is $39,878.88.

in dispute. Rule 34(b)(5) further requires that the petition contain clear and concise lettered statements of the facts on which the taxpayer bases the assignments of error. See Jarvis v Commissioner, 78 T.C. 646, 658 (1982).

The petition filed in this case does not satisfy the requirements of Rule 34(b)(4) and (5). There is neither assignment of error nor allegation of fact in support of any justiciable claim. Rather, the petition contains nothing but frivolous and groundless arguments. Under the circumstances, we see no need to catalog petitioner's arguments and painstakingly address them. As the Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit has remarked: "We perceive no need to refute these arguments with somber reasoning and copious citation of precedent; to do so might suggest that these arguments have some colorable merit." Crain v Commissioner, 737 F.2d 1417 (5th Cir. 1984).

Because the petition fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted, we will grant respondent's motion to dismiss. See Scherping v Commissioner, 747 F.2d 478 (8th Cir. 1984); Rules 34(a)(1), 123(b).

Section 6673(a) (1) authorizes the Tax Court to require a taxpayer to pay to the United States a penalty not in excess of $25,000 whenever it appears that proceedings have been instituted or maintained by the taxpayer primarily for delay or that the [⊥2] taxpayer's position in such proceeding is frivolous or groundless. Although we will not impose a penalty on petitioner in this case, we will take this opportunity to admonish petitioner that the Court will consider imposing such a penalty should she return to the Court and advance similar arguments in the future.

Upon due consideration and for cause, it is hereby ORDERED: That respondent's Motion to Dismiss For Failure to State a Claim Upon Which Relief Can be Granted, filed September 13, 2004, is granted and this case is dismissed on the ground the petition fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted. It is further ORDERED AND DECIDED: That petitioner is liable for a deficiency of $177,239.47 in Federal income tax for 2002 and additions to tax under sections 6651(a)(1) and 6654(a) in the amount of $39,878.88 and $5,922.81, respectively.

ORDER

Upon due consideration of the respondent's Motion to Dismiss for Failure to State a claim upon Which Relief Can Be Granted, filed September 13, 2004, and for cause, it is ORDERED that the petitioner shall on or before October 4, 2004, file with the Court an amended petition in which she sets forth with specificity each error she alleges was made by the respondent in the determination of the deficiency and separate statements of every fact upon which petitioner bases the assignment of each error. It is further ORDERED that the respondent's motion to dismiss is calendared for hearing at the Motions Session commencing at 10:00 a.m., on October 20, 2004, in United States Tax Court, Tax Court Courtroom, Third Floor, 400 Second Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20217. This Order constitutes official notice to the parties.

The parties are reminded of the applicability of Tax Court Rule 50(c), which provides for the submission of a written statement in lieu of, or in addition to, attendance at the hearing.

> In order that the hearings be scheduled as efficiently as possible, if either party believes that the hearing will extend beyond 30 minutes, that party shall so notify the Clerk of the Court by letter or by telephone at least 48 hours in advance of the Motions Session. [⊥2]

Any document submitted to the Court should reflect in bold print immediately beneath the docket number that it relates to the "Motions Session" of the Court and the date of said session.

RICHARD JOHN FLORANCE, JR.,

Petitioner-Appellant

v.

COMMISSIONER OF INTERNAL REVENUE,

Respondent-Appellee

Appeal from the United States Tax Court
(11782-03 and 18209-03)

Before KING, WIENER and DeMOSS, Circuit Judges.

PER CURIAM: *

Proceeding pro se, Petitioner-Appellant Richard John Florance, Jr., appeals adverse rulings of the United States Tax Court. We note that, in addition to rulings against Florance on all substantive issues, the Tax Court imposed sanctions grounded primarily in the frivolousness of his cases and the actions he took in prosecuting them. Now, in addition to seeking our affirmance of the Tax Court in all respects, Respondent-Appellee Commissioner of Internal Revenue asks us to impose sanctions against Florance for bringing a frivolous appeal.

* Pursuant to 5TH CIR. R. 47.5, the court has determined that this opinion should not be published and is not precedent except under the limited circumstances set forth in 5TH CIR. R. 47.5.4.

Based on our review of the record on appeal, including the rulings and reasoning of the Tax Court and its imposition of sanctions, the operative facts and the appellate briefs of the parties, we too conclude that the Tax Court correctly ruled in favor of the Commissioner on all substantive matters as well as sanctions, and that Florance's contentions there as here are wholly without merit.

Turning to sanctions for a frivolous appeal, the Commissioner has clearly made a case for their imposition, and Florance has failed to file a response or opposition thereto. Noting the sanctions already imposed by the Tax Court, and further noting that Florance is before us pro se, we decline to assess further monetary penalties. We do, however, order the Clerk of this Court to refuse to accept for filing any further pleadings or other instruments received from Florance or on his behalf without first obtaining authorization of a judge of this court.

- AFFIRMED; ORDER ISSUED PROHIBITING FUTURE FILINGS. **

ORDER OF DISMISSAL AND DECISION

This case was calendared for the March 14, 2005, Trial Session in Dallas, Texas. No appearance was made by or on behalf of petitioner. Counsel for respondent appeared before the Court and filed a motion to dismiss for lack of prosecution. Upon due consideration, and for reasons further appearing in the transcript of this case, it is ORDERED that respondent's motion to dismiss for lack of prosecution, filed March 14, 2005, is granted, and this case hereby is dismissed for lack of prosecution. It is further

ORDERED AND DECIDED that there is a deficiency in income tax due from petitioner as follows:

| Year | Deficiency | Penalty under I.R.C. § 6651(a)(1) | Penalty under I.R.C. § 6654 |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2000 | $3,503.00 | $ 875.75 | $187.11 |
| 2001 | $7,628.00 | $1,907.00 | $304.82 |

MOTION TO DISMISS FOR FAILURE TO STATE A CLAIM UPON WHICH RELIEF CAN BE GRANTED AND TO IMPOSE A PENALTY UNDER I.R.C. § 6673

RESPONDENT MOVES, pursuant to the provisions of Tax Court Rule 40, that the Court dismiss this case for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted, and that the Court find in its order that there are due from Petitioner deficiencies in income tax and additions to tax for the years and in the amounts set forth in the Notices of Deficiency dated February 18, 2004, upon which Notices this case is based. [1]

IN SUPPORT THEREOF, Respondent respectfully states: [⊥ 2]

1. Respondent, in the Notices of Deficiency issued to Petitioner on February 18, 2004, copies of which are attached as Exhibits A and B, respectively, determined deficiencies and additions to tax for the 2000 and 2001 tax years as follows:

---

[1] Respondent made significant concessions in the Answer. Respondent seeks only the deficiencies and additions to tax set forth in the Answer and paragraph two of this motion.

| Year | Deficiency | § 6651 Addition to tax | § 6654 Addition to tax |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2000 | $35,197.00 | $8,799.25 | $1,880.05 |
| 2001 | $52,808.00 | $13,202.00 | $2,110.39 |

2. Subsequent to the issuance of the Notices of Deficiency, Respondent received additional information from Petitioner and determined that the deficiencies and additions to tax should be adjusted downward. Respondent issued the revised findings for 2000 and 2001 in two letters dated May 7, 2004, copies of which are attached as Exhibits C and D, respectively. In these letters, Respondent determined deficiencies and additions to tax for the 2000 and 2001 tax years as follows:

| Year | Deficiency | § 6651 Addition to tax | § 6654 Addition to tax |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2000 | $3,503.00 | $875.75 | $187.11 |
| 2001 | $7,628.00 | $1,907.00 | $304.82 |

3. Respondent, in the revised findings issued to Petitioner as set forth above, determined deficiencies and additions to tax for the 2000 and 2001 tax years based upon [1 3] income received by Petitioner from interest and debt cancellation.

4. On May 18, 2004, Petitioner filed a Petition with this Court and alleged a disagreement with the Notices of Deficiency and revised deficiency letters. The Petition, a copy of which is attached as Exhibit E, is not in conformance with Tax Court Rule 34(b).

5. Tax Court Rule 34(b) provides in pertinent part that the petition in a deficiency action shall contain "clear arid concise assignments of each and every error which the Petitioner alleges to have been committed by the Commissioner in the determination of the deficiency or liability. ... Any issue not raised in the assignment of errors shall be deemed to be conceded."
